

2. international exar-conference Hochdorf / Enz (G) 15th-17th October 2004

In cooperation with the Celts museum Hochdorf / Enz.

Regarding the participation of EXAR in the exhibition project „WOOD CULTURE - from the primeval times into the future“ planned by the 'Landesmuseum für Natur und Mensch' in Oldenburg the conference had as central topic of interest „wood“.

Evening lecture on Friday, 15 October 2004:

Around 500 v. Christ - new balance of power in iron age Europe

Dirk Vorlauf

Conference program at Saturday, 16 October 2004:

Welcome

Simone Stork, head of Celts museum Hochdorf / Enz

Welcome

Mamoun Fansa, EXAR-President

Optimal adjustment or tradition?

Technological aspects antique bow weapons of Central Europe in the comparison

Niels Bleicher

Experiments for the use of the „Mannheimer bow“ as shooting weapon

Rudolf Walter, Gaëlle Rosendahl and Wilfried Rosendahl,

Maple, beech, hazelnut ...

(Reconstruction suggestions for different wooden object from the prince grave of the third century AD of Gommern, Ldkr. Jerichower Land, Saxonia-Anhalt, Germany)

Matthias Becker

Wood traces

(Reconstruction of the wooden grave chamber from the prince grave of the third century AD of Gommern, Ldkr. Jerichower Land, Saxonia-Anhalt, Germany)

Rosemarie Leineweber

Wood anatomy and lake level

Interim report of an experiment to the layer genesis in a lake village at the Bodensee, Germany

Niels Bleicher

Experiments for the preservation and to the behaviour in case of fire of oak posts

Katrin Staude

Fire and house

Analyses to burned down house models of the experimental archaeology

Olaf Strutzberg

A wood well after models from the 13th and 14th century AD

Kai Schaake

Wood anatomy

A first step to the experiment

Werner Schoch

To the production of stone containers in ancient Egypt

Anne Klammt

Well covered - head cloth of the woman in the Middle Ages

Katrin Kania

Are the prehistoric reconstructions reliable?

Tiberius Bader

Following the lectures the second EXAR annual meeting of the members was held.

Afterwards an evening receipt took place by mayor Peter Schäfer, Gemeinde Eberdingen, in the Celts museum Hochdorf/Enz.

Finally Mrs. Simone Stork led interested conference guests by the museum and was available for questions and discussions.

Excursion at Sunday 17 October 2004:

The conference excursion was the Heuneburg at the Danube. After a visit and a guidance in the open air museum a guidance followed in the Heuneburgmuseum in the village Hundertsingen.