

5th international exar-conference, ARCHEON (NL)

11th-14th October 2007

In cooperation with ARCHEON, Alphen aan den Rijn (NL)

Central topic of the conference was "Settlement and Building Activity, Open Air Museums - Transfer of Knowledge".

Evening lecture at Thursday 11th October 2007:

The relation between archaeology and experimental archaeology

Gerard IJzereef

Conference program at Friday, 12th October 2007:

Welcome

Mamoun Fansa, exar-president

Welcome

Jack Veldman, Director des ARCHEON

Making salt in the Low Countries the medieval way

Adriaan de Kraker

The reconstruction of a middle Bronze Age fortification of the Terramare culture in Montale/Italy

Wolfgang Lobisser

The pitch of the Homo neanderthalensis, a possibility to produce it

Dieter Todtenhaupt

How to make threads, cords, ropes, fabrics and basketry in the Stone Age?
Working with textile material

Anne Reichert

Cooking pit, an explanation for buried fire features?

Matthias Lindemann,

Tiptoeing through the Merovingian period - European shoe fashion of the early Middle Ages reconstructed

Christine Wenzel

From wood to stave bowl

Thomas Lessig-Weller und Ulrike Weller

Living more beautiful in the Stone Age - Experiment, education and mediation in the Stone Age Park of Albersdorf, Northern Germany

Rüdiger Kelm, Tosca Friedrich und Birte Meiler

Reconstruction of the medieval process from "Iakense Stof", including the process of walking

Toon Reurink

Stone Age - the experiment: entertainment or module of transfer in museums?

Gunter Schöbel

The lake dwelling constructors of Phyn - Stone Age live

Marlise Wunderli

Afterwards discussion under the direction of Mamoun Fansa: Archaeology and television - which scientific value does cooperation with TV have?

After the lectures the fifth exar membership meeting was held.

Conference program at Saturday 13th October 2007:

Exploring possibilities "Archäotechnik" supporting experimental archaeology

Thomas Lessig-Weller

Reed boat expedition ABORA III

Dominique Görlitz

From excavation to museum - the Archaeological Centre Hitzacker

Ulrike Braun und Kai Martens

After the lecture program followed a guided tour in Archeon led from Jack Veldman. Subsequently, different topics in Workshops were presented.

Excursion at Sunday 14th October 2007:

Destinations of the excursion were the National Museum of Antiquities and Museum Boerhaave in Leiden.